2. PRESENTACION

En el mundo moderno la competitividad entre empresas se hace con el servicio de calidad en la atención al usuario. Es imprescindible que el personal encargado de la prestación de servicios, en los distintos ámbitos turísticos y hoteleros, se encuentre altamente calificado en el manejo del idioma inglés, con el fin de ofrecer servicios de óptima calidad capaces de situar a Colombia dentro del mercado laboral mundial.

La presente guía de aprendizaje se desarrolla con base en las necesidades del aprendiz de desenvolverse en inglés dentro del ámbito laboral de manera verbal, para atender solicitudes, quejas, sugerencias, etcétera; de clientes extranjeros, de manera efectiva, eficiente y empática.

La temática particular de esta guía se centra en el pasado y sus tiempos gramaticales, conocimientos que le permitirán al aprendiz comprender relatos de situaciones previas que pondrán en contexto la importancia de un evento histórico y su atractivo turístico (lugar, monumento, edificación, etc.)

Frida Kahlo

Biography
(1907–1954)

UPDATED: FEB 24, 2020 ORIGINAL: FEB 28, 2018

Painter Frida Kahlo was a Mexican artist who was married to Diego Rivera and is still admired as a feminist icon.

Who Was Frida Kahlo?

Artist Frida Kahlo was considered one of Mexico's greatest artists who began painting mostly self-portraits after she was severely injured in a bus accident. Kahlo later became politically active and married fellow communist artist Diego Rivera in 1929. She exhibited her paintings in Paris and Mexico before her death in 1954.

An accident

Two cars were going down Second Street in Lawrence, Kansas. A middle-aged woman was driving a Chevrolet. Right behind her, a teenage student was driving an old Ford. The woman was driving slowly and carefully. The student wasn't driving carefully. He was worrying about his classes in Spanish and physics. He was worrying about the final exams, so he wasn't paying attention to the road. The traffic light was green. A young woman was walking down the street. A cat was sitting on the corner near the traffic light. A dog was sitting on the opposite corner.

The dog was thinking about a bone.
Suddenly the dog saw a cat.
It ran across the road.
The woman saw the dog.
She quickly put her foot on the brakes.
The Ford crashed into the Chevrolet.
A young woman saw the accident.
She ran to a telephone booth.
The police and an ambulance came immediately.

1 Read the text and answer these questions:

3.3. Actividades de apropiación del conocimiento (Conceptualización y Teorización)

- Pay attention to teacher's basic grammar explanation at the board.

CAN AND COULD

Can and could are modal auxiliary verbs.

CAN

Can is an auxiliary verb, a modal auxiliary verb. We use can to:

- talk about possibility and ability
- make requests
- ask for or give permission

Structure of can

The basic structure for can is:

subject	auxiliary verb can	main verb
I	can	play tennis

The main verb is always in base form.

subject	auxiliary verb can	main verb
I	can	play tennis
He	can	play tennis

subject	auxiliary verb can	main verb
I	can	play tennis
He	can	play tennis

Notes that:

- Can is impossible. There is only one form: can.
- The main verb is always in base form.

We cannot say: *I can playing tennis.

Use of can

can for possibility and ability

We use can to talk about what is possible, what we are able or free to do:

- I can drive a car.
- John can speak Spanish.
- I cannot hear you. (I can't hear you.)
- Can you hear me?

Normally, we use can for the present. But it is possible to use can when we make present decisions about future ability.

Can you help me with my homework? (present)

B: Sorry I'm busy today. But I can help you tomorrow. (future)

COULD

Could is an auxiliary verb, a modal auxiliary verb. We use could to:

- talk about past possibility or ability
- make requests

Structure of could

subject	auxiliary verb could	main verb
I	could	play tennis

The main verb is always in base form.

subject	auxiliary verb could	main verb
I	could	play tennis
He	could	play tennis

subject	auxiliary verb could	main verb
I	could	play tennis

Notes that:

- Could is impossible. There is only one form: could.
- The main verb is always in base form.

We cannot say: *I could playing tennis.

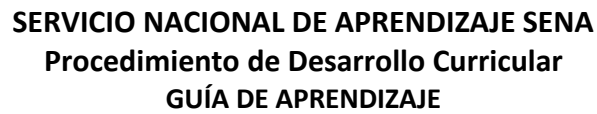

Use of could

could for past possibility or ability

We use could to talk about what was possible in the past, what we were able or free to do:

- I could swim when I was 5 years old.
- My grandfather could speak many languages.
- When we arrived home, we could not open the door. (*couldn't open the door.)
- Could you understand what he was saying?

We use could (possibility) and couldn't (impossibility) for general ability in the past. But when we talk about one special occasion in the past, we use be able to (possibility) and couldn't (impossibility). Look at these examples:

The diagram illustrates the relationship between the general concept of ABILITY and its specific forms in the PRESENT and PAST. At the top, a green box labeled 'ABILITY' branches into two boxes: 'PRESENT' (blue) and 'PAST' (orange). Below 'PRESENT' is a box for 'CAN / CAN'T' with a green arrow pointing down to a box containing three sentences: 'I can cook', 'She can ride a horse', and 'Can we run for 1 hour?'. Below 'PAST' is a box for 'COULD / COULDN'T' with a green arrow pointing down to a box containing three sentences: 'I could cook very well!', 'She could ride a horse', and 'Could you run for an hour when you were younger?'.

ABILITY
PRESENT CAN / CAN'T I can cook She can ride a horse Can we run for 1 hour?	PAST COULD / COULDN'T I could cook very well! She could ride a horse Could you run for an hour when you were younger?
